LCSO investigates stabbing

Sheriff believes the incident to be a ‘targeted crime and not random’

STEVE SMITH
SSMITH@LACLEDERECORD.COM

The Laclede County Sheriff’s Office is investigating a robbery and stabbing that occurred Monday afternoon. A 33-year-old woman received stab wounds to the arm and leg. The injuries were not life-threatening, according to Sheriff David Millsap. The woman was taken to the hospital but Millsap did not know if she was held there overnight.

According to the sheriff, the incident occurred at about 4 p.m. Monday in the 4,000 block of East Highway 32. The victim told sheriff’s deputies she came home with her 5-year-old son and found a man and woman she did not know in her house. One of the two stabbed her and they then stole her car, she told deputies. Millsap said the woman did not know which one stabbed her.

Millsap said that according to the initial investigation the suspects are a black male and a black female. “We are investigating if there is a known relationship between the victim and the possible suspects,” Millsap said. “We believe this to be a targeted crime and not random.” No arrests have been made in the incident. Millsap said the investigation is continuing.

Tiffany Lowrance monitors her daughter Makenna’s progress on some online instruction. Extending the closure of schools through April 30 means this will be a common scene in Laclede County households.

With school districts being closed through the end of April, parents are now getting a taste of what it’s like to be teachers

CHRIS RODEN
FOR THE LACLEDE RECORD

When it comes to spreading an infectious disease like COVID-19, there may be no better method than sending kids to a public classroom to pick up coronavirus and any other bug on desktops and pencil sharpeners. Consequently, area schools have closed their doors and recently extended their closures through the month of April with the potential for a longer closure. As a result, many Laclede County parents have become at-home teachers, experiencing many of the same joys and challenges as regular classroom teachers and employing many of the same tactics.

Tiffany Lowrance has two school-aged children she teaches at home. It has been a good experience for her family. “So far, it’s been really good. We haven’t really had a lot of issues,” Lowrance said. A common teaching technique is teach the teacher. “It’s kind of like the kids are teaching us what they’re learning. It’s kind of nice because I’m like ‘I don’t know what you’re talking about,’ so then they kind of feel better because then they’re teaching us what’s going on,” Lowrance said. Lowrance has a sixth-grader at Lebanon Middle School and second-grader at Maplecrest.

An article in Saturday's LCR about production suspension at local boat plant incorrectly identified a manufacturer furloughing employees. The article should have said the furloughed employees continue to be G3 employees and continue to have paid benefits from Yamaha.

Dr John Walter Massey

Dr. John Walter Massey, of Aurora, Missouri, departed this life on March 27, 2020, at the age of 88 years.

John, the son of Homer and Lovenna Massey, was born August 16, 1931, in Orla, Missouri. He grew up on a family farm in Laclede County with parents who were both educators. He graduated from Lebanon High School.

John enlisted in the United States Air Force and was a Staff Sergeant, serving with air and sea rescue, during the Korean War.

On August 9, 1952, he was united in marriage to Janet Lee Park, the love of his life. They celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary just prior to Janet's death.

John received three degrees from University of Missouri Columbia College of Agriculture: BS in Agriculture Education and MS and PhD in Animal Breeding (Reproductive Physiology) & Genetics.

Dr. Massey joined the MU Animal Sciences Department faculty in 1961, serving one year as an Extension Area Livestock Specialist in southeast Missouri and then 30 years on the MU campus as an assistant professor and Extension State Livestock Specialist. During his tenure he developed research based programs for beef cattle producers. He coordinated Missouri beef cattle improvement programs and established the Missouri On-Farm Performance Testing Program. Dr. Massey received many state and national awards, including the National Beef Improvement Federation Pioneer Award and the American Society of Animal Science Fellow Award. He was awarded the professor emeritus title in 1993.

When John retired in 1992, he and Janet bought a farm in Lawrence County near Aurora where they had a cow-calf, steer backgrounding and heifer development operation until his death.

John is survived by his daughter, Vera Massey and husband Michael McGeehan, of Columbia, Missouri; a son, John Massey Jr. and wife Pam, of Columbia, Missouri; and grandchildren Christopher Nichols, of Chicago, Illinois, Sarah Buran and husband Aaron, and Stacy Massey, of Columbia, Missouri; a sister Thelma Six of Adrian, Missouri; as well as many other relatives and dear friends. He was preceded in death by his wife, his parents and his brothers Robert Massey and Don Massey.

John was buried on April 2, 2020 at McBride Cemetery in rural Laclede County. A Celebration of Life will be planned for a later date. The family requests that if you would like to honor John, you can make donations to the Massey Memorial Teachin Scholarship fund for Laclede County Public School teachers wanting to further education in their field. Make checks payable to the Lebanon Area Foundation, PO Box 1042, Lebanon, MO 65536.

Spring is in the air in Morgan, Missouri

Morgan

Penny Dame

Well it's officially April 5, 2020. Spring is in the air and the grass is pretty and green, the flowers are blooming. It's a beautiful time of year. I know people are tired of staying home. I will admit I am used to going places and doing things, but I also have to say, If staying home prevents me from catching Covid 19 and bringing it in to my 88-year-old mom, or giving it to one of my grandsons then I will stay home. I also know that lots of people still have to go to work. I understand that. My husband is considered an essential worker. So

I understand these people have to go. But I also understand there are always a few people that don't intend to have their governors or their mayors tell them what to do. There is always that one mama whose kids are driving her crazy so let's go walk around Walmart. This jeopardizes all the people who are trying to keep groceries on the shelves for us all.

But that being said, I plan to stay home. I always have things I can do. I have cleaned out buildings, I have mowed and weed eated the yard. I even weed eated a fence row out.

Pleasant Grove Baptist Church had services outside Sunday morning. I didn't go, afraid I'd get a cold. They had about 50 people that attended. Sherry Wishler sang a special, one by Charlie Slavens and one by Pastor Mike and Chris Hill.

Be a Second-Miler in Stoutland, Missouri

Stoutland Tidbits

Marie Brown

I was greatly influenced by my maternal grandmother, Martha (Hopwood) Collins/Chapman. I remember her stories of the Great Depression and what people did to provide for their families. During the Great Depression, it seemed an entire nation stood in one long breadline, desperate for even the barest of essentials. It was a crisis of monumental proportions. My parents were born during the Great Depression, they lived their childhood and youth during the era of WWII. Their own stories put a lasting mark on my life. Growing up, I did not hear too much complaining. Things were what they were and that was that. I believe the two generations before me were probably somewhat scarred by the hardships and sacrifices of their childhood and youth. Good or bad. I do think their life experiences led to a more simple, frugal lifestyle. Starting with my generation, we have not known hardship or sacrifice.

The seriousness of the pandemic is not lost on me, but there seems to be an over abundance of fear, rage, and uncertainty. No promise of hope. Some of the messages of fear I have heard recently include: "What are we going to do?" "What is going to happen next?" The media is reporting on the increase of individuals suffering with depression and the rise of suicides. Add to the mix, the excessive hoarding. I am disappointed with those who are practicing excessive greed and rudeness. Individuals hoarding toilet paper. Store employees being verbally abused because of empty shelves. These examples are sad and as Americans I think we should be above these selfish rude acts.

But then there are those acts of kindness that makes your heart swell and you believe again in the goodness of humanity. Jim and I know many smiling, giving neighbors; our Main Street has an overabundance of Second-milers. This past week, one neighbor going to get groceries asked what we needed. Then, there are the two neighbors that check on Jim periodically throughout the week, especially when I am not at home. I can't forget the neighbor who works nights, who offered to help my brother put the rafter beams up on the new porch addition to the house. There are the two fellows who have worked tirelessly helping clear out rubbish on the property. Finally, there were the dear friends that left us yummy sweet rolls and more on the front porch. We are blessed by our community of friends and family.

Now more than ever we need to be doing daily deeds for which we can never be repaid. We need to join the club of the Second-milers.

Staying home, Jim and I have not drove each other too crazy yet. We have been cleaning closets, cabinet/table drawers (Jim is a paper clippings keeper/stuffer), out buildings, and more. I have carted extra bags of junk to the trash bin. Two pick-up loads of shed accumulations have been trucked away. Rubbish has been piled and burned. The weather has allowed me to spend a few hours a day outside. I have cleaned flower beds, move a few plants, dug up and pitched unwanted plants (overgrown), planted new beds, and thrown away yard ornaments of all sorts. Some of the windows got washed. I know this because my body tells me so—so sore.

The only Stoutland news is that there will be a free trash pick-up for the residents of the Town of Stoutland Monday, April 20. All trash should be set out the night before.

Remember to love your neighbor as yourself

There are so many sides to our current situation, it truly boggles but I'm thinking....

After 9/11, in 2001, it was reported that church attendance increased significantly—for a time. Twenty years later and just like the Israelites of so long ago, people have drifted away once again. We read about them and think, how forgetful and ungrateful they were, but to truly know how they could be so foolish, we need only look in a mirror.

Folks have ignored and even mocked God for so long and maybe He just felt like, "You know, I can still get the world's attention pretty quickly if I want. Watch this!"

Our world has been consumed in recent years by nasty politics, mass shootings, and every way possible to misuse our many electronic miracles, and now suddenly that's all changed in very short order. We haven't seen nearly as much of the political infighting of late and no shootings on the nightly news or maybe they just aren't being reported. Either way, it's a definitive change from just weeks ago.

God has always wanted us to take better care of one another—remember the Good Samaritan? And now suddenly, neighbors are checking on neighbors, playing music for one another, freely sharing food and supplies, and most important of all, attention. We're sharing and sampling each other's recipes again, calling one another, checking in, leaving little gifts, writing notes, reading stories aloud to children and seniors alike, waving and visiting, car to car. And as for those electronics, we are using them so much now the internet is not always functioning at its best due to overuse. Still,

COMMENTARY

Laura Valenti

we are now using them to visit one another, face to face, through Skype, Zoom, Face Time, Facebook, all kinds of different downloads, programs, and apps. But we are looking out for our neighbors in ways we never have or haven't for a very long time, and that is the bottom line.

Meanwhile, while we may have been truly inconvenienced thus far, or even suffered some more significant trials and tribulations from this world-wide tragedy, here in the Ozarks, we are still mightily blessed for the most part. Many of us can still go outside and enjoy this spring sunshine. Most of us have avoided floods, tornadoes and other storm damage and are still sleeping in safe, warm homes. While some are struggling with food, supplies and overdue bills, other groups are stepping up to help those truly in need.

And if like me, you are a Baby Boomer know that a new Baby Boom is on its way and should be here in about nine months! And this one will be world-wide! There will undoubtedly be a new wave of divorce applications filed as well—familiarity and all this togetherness at home, breeds both love and contempt. The conventional wisdom tells us that many of us senior citizens may not survive this but we all know, nobody gets out of this life alive! Many of us Boomers have lived a pretty adventurous life and Jesus has been good enough to see us safely thus far. One thing we have all seen time and again in our years on this earth, is that when it's your time to go—whether at the hands of a drunk driver, a freak accident at work or a heart attack, stroke or the Great "C" (cancer)—it's your time and that's that!

So at this point, all of us, need to take a deep breath (socially distant from everyone else, right?), notice the wildflowers and the tulips, wave to your neighbors, call someone, write them a note (and it's not even Christmas!) and remember, God's got this. He always has....although a plague of frogs is looking pretty good right now by comparison!

Love the Lord your

God with all your heart... {pray, praise and honor Him in times of adversity and prosperity}. Love your neighbor as yourself...Do this and you will live. Luke 10:27-28

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Newspapers are important

I think this is my first letter to the editor. I just wanted to say that I hope some of the money going for small businesses will go to the Laclede County Record. I am very sad to see our paper having to shut down to one copy a week, but that is better than none.

and doing what they can do. I look forward to getting the paper. I think it is very important to us that enjoy reading the paper.

Whatever happens, I will let you know that the newspaper is a very important need and helps many of us to keep up with what is going on around us as there are still people who do not have a computer.

Sue Vandergrift
Lebanon

There are so many of us that use this paper as we know it only prints the truth. Many of us read every article including the ads in the paper. We read the writers of the local communities as well as the up to the minute news that we only see in this newspaper.

We read all the obituaries, even though they may be after the services are already over, we still want to know who has passed away.

In a small community, I think there are several businesses concerned about their employees

Not all letters should be printed

A community newspaper is under no obligation to publish or give platform to any citizen who happens to write them. My right to speech does not create an obligation to be heard. It is a choice the editor makes. And in your Saturday, April 4 paper, the last Saturday edition for the foreseeable future, you chose to publish a letter telling people to go to church next week, for Easter, in the middle of a contagious disease outbreak. Are you insane? Didn't you already learn this lesson when you published an "unbalanced" letter the week before the election?

This is America, and you, the LCR, can publish whatever you like; nobody from the government can tell you what you can or can't print. That's what makes the First Amendment so powerful. That power is in your hands, as journalists. And you are using it to spread bad information and conspiracy theories during a public health crisis, to the detriment of public health.

They say newspapers are the first draft of history. I hope when all this is over, you can reflect back and be proud of the decisions you made, when accurate information was in such short supply, and good journalism was so important.

I fear history will judge poorly your decision to publish open letters without editorial discretion or context.

Lake Regional begins drive-thru COVID-19 testing

STEVE SMITH
SSMITH@LACLEDERECORD.COM

Lake Regional Health System began drive-thru testing for COVID-19 in Lebanon on Tuesday.

Testing is by appointment only; no walk-ins will be accepted. Patients must have a physician's order, in accordance with state and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines.

The drive thru testing site is at 325 Harwood Ave. in Lebanon. The facility, owned by the City of Lebanon, is part of the old hospital and is adjacent to the Laclede County Health Department. Testing will be conducted under the canopy of the old Emergency Department.

"We know there is a great need for testing in Laclede County," said Dane Henry, FACHE, chief executive officer of Lake Regional Health System in a Lake Regional press release. "We are pleased to work with the county health department and the city to bring this important service to Lebanon."

Lake Regional set up the testing site over the weekend and tested a limited number of cases Monday.

"Our goal is to offer a safe, convenient experience for the community that does not leave patients waiting in long lines in their cars or potentially exposing others to illness," said Mike Dow, PharmD, director of Ancillary Services at Lake Regional. "We used the same model when we opened our first site in Osage Beach a week ago, and it is working well."

Dow, who is overseeing operations at both sites, said the Lebanon facility will initially have capacity to test 30-40 patients per day. But, the model can be scaled up to meet demand.

"We know there are people with mild to moderate symptoms who want testing because they are concerned about infecting their loved ones and others," Henry said. "Lake Regional has been planning and working toward making testing more accessible to people in our service area for weeks. We want the people of this community to know they can count on us to provide the services they need."

The city has made the building available for the testing service.

"We believe it is important for our residents to have COVID-19 testing and we appreciate the work all of our local healthcare providers are doing to expand testing in the City of Lebanon," said City Communications Manager Derek Gean.

Here's what patients need to do to get tested.

- If you're feeling sick, get screened. Call your doctor's office or Lake Regional's 24/7 nurse call line at 573-348-7419. If you don't have symptoms, you won't be tested.

- If you meet testing criteria, your provider will make arrangements to see you. If you are a Lake Regional patient, your provider may schedule a virtual visit.

- If your provider orders a test, Lake Regional's COVID-19 Testing Center will call you to schedule an appointment within 24 hours for drive-thru testing.

Mobley

The Lebanon R-3 School Board hired Mobley for the position at its March 31 meeting.

Maplecrest Principal Ryan Campbell said Mobley will be an asset to the school.

"Carla will bring her vast knowledge of the district, curriculum, instructional practices, and she knows first hand that next step for all of our students," said Campbell. "Most important is that Carla has a heart for kids and that is evident if you've ever been around her."

Carla has spent all of her 25 years in education at Boswell, as a 4th and 5th grade teacher and most recently as an instructional coach. She reflected on her time at Boswell and the change she is making.

"My decision to transfer was made with lots of consideration and heartfelt prayer," said Mobley. "I have spent the past 25 years at Boswell Elementary and it has truly built me as an educator, teammate, and friend."

"When my sons were at Maplecrest, they both had extraordinary situations that impacted each of them and our family. As I look back on these times, I have the utmost respect and fond memories of how Maplecrest loved and supported our entire family. This support included a perfect balance between academic, social, and emotional support. This is one of the many reasons I am honored to join the dedicated Maplecrest team. I have personally experienced their positive climate and culture. As their newest teammate and assistant principal, I want to continue to build on Maplecrest's educational values," Mobley said in a press release.

She has lived in Lebanon for 26 years. Her husband, Mike, is a Master Sergeant with the Missouri State Highway Patrol. They have two sons, Conner and Curtis. Conner is a content developer for a local media company and Curtis is a senior at LHS, with plans to be an electrical lineman.

Mobley grew up in Friestatt, a small Lutheran/German community and enjoys her time visiting the tight knit community, while caring for her father and visiting family. She enjoys time with her boys as well as cooking, baking, and grilling.

At Cedarhurst our first priority continues to be protecting the health and wellbeing of our residents, families and employees.

On-site Testing Kits for Our Community

To stay ahead of the spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19), we have secured on-site testing kits through our partnership with two private labs. In addition to symptom screening residents twice a day and our employees when they arrive for work, we can now administer testing to residents or employees that show symptoms. And results are known within 24-48 hours.

Other Steps to Protect and Support our Residents:

- Ongoing Preventive Measures: We are closely monitoring and implementing CDC and federal, state and local Coronavirus (COVID-19) guidelines for health and safety.
- Connective Technology: Our partnership with Caremerge assures families and residents stay digitally connected and informed about their loved ones' ongoing care and wellness.
- EmpowerMe Wellness Therapy Continues: Important physical, occupational and speech therapy services have been adjusted using in-room therapy and social distancing practices.
- Caring, Supportive Staff: We are fortunate to have ample resources and dedicated employees. Our Cedarhurst Response Team vigilantly monitors the safety of our community around the clock.

If you have questions, we're always here to help. Just call for more information.

Capable hands. Welcoming hearts.

R-3 announces new grading criteria

District also hopes to keep graduation date of May 15, rescheduled prom for June 13

STEVE SMITH
SSMITH@LACLEDERECORD.COM

The Lebanon R-3 School District has announced some changes related to the COVID-19 pandemic and its effect on schools.

School buildings are closed to students, but learning is continuing over the internet.

According to a school district announcement, Internet accessibility in the form of student hotspots and public WiFi access locations will be provided by the school district to any family that does not have internet access. At a minimum, all students are expected to engage and communicate with their teachers on a weekly basis.

Students are expected to engage in coursework by communicating with their teachers and completing assignments. All completed coursework will either maintain or improve a student's current semester grade. If, however, a student fails to engage and communicate with his or her teacher, their grade may be reduced as a result.

Students will be allowed to make up any missed assignments from the third quarter per existing policies and procedures.

LAUNCH and dual credit classes will continue as planned and students are expected to complete all necessary assignments and course requirements.

A letter grade and GPA will still be reported on the student's grade card at the end of the semester.

The School District also announced that it still hopes to hold graduation on the scheduled date of May 15, but has arranged alternate dates on June 27 and July 23 if needed.

The Lebanon High School prom is being rescheduled to June 13.

Commission approves replacement of Independence Bridge

SSMITH@LACLEDERECORD.COM

The Laclede County Commission has approved a contract to begin the process of replacing Independence Bridge.

The bridge is located on Independence Road between Highway 5 and Aa on the west side of Laclede County.

At its April 2 meeting, the commission adopted an engineering agreement with Great River Engineering of Springfield for $47,500.

Western District Commissioner Darrell Pollock said this will get the county the engineering work needed for the project.

The county plans to have the project constructed this year.

Cost of the new bridge is expected to be about $350,000, but that could vary depending on the bids.

"They're hoping the bids will come in lower and maybe they will," Pollock said.

Pollock said the bridge has been on maximum load capacity for several years and now has a five ton weight limit.

He said the county had been looking at replacing the bridge for a number of years, but other bridge needs had to be taken care of first.

The traffic count for the bridge is well over 1,000 per day, ranking as one of the top five most used county roads, commissioners said.

"It's a very heavily traveled road in the county," Pollock said. "There's a lot of farm land through there and housing as well. It's been near the top of the list of bridges to be replaced for a number of years because of those factors."

Pollock

He said the county was funding the bridge with a soft match. The funds the county puts into the project count toward a match that can be used on a future bridge project.

Presiding Commissioner Randy Angst said the commission would seek as much local participation in the project as possible as bids are taken.

Oklahoma woman injured in interstate wreck on Sunday

STEVE SMITH
SSMITH@LACLEDERECORD.COM

An Oklahoma woman received bruising and abrasions in a crash Sunday afternoon at the Interstate 44 129 exit.

According to Lebanon Police, Lisa Roddy, 46, of Oklahoma was driving a 2010 Ford Focus westbound on I-44 at about 1:49 p.m. when she attempted to turn on to the 129 exit. Police said Roddy told them she turned late, lost control of her vehicle and left the roadway. Police said she was unsure of what happened after that.

Police said Roddy had bruising and abrasions from her seatbelt on her collar bone. She was not transported to a hospital, police said.

Mercy

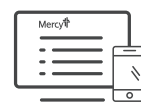

Like each of you, Mercy continues to prepare for the COVID-19 pandemic in our community.

This health crisis is very different than others in our lifetime, but we will face it together.

Because information is changing rapidly, here's how we are communicating with our patients:

If you are a Mercy patient and have shared your email with us, we will use it to share time-sensitive information about changes to operating hours, visitor policies, etc.

Resources, local news updates and helpful advice from our Mercy physicians is available to all at mercy.net/COVID-19.

Up to the minute information from the Centers for Disease Control can be found at cdc.gov/coronavirus.

We ask that you use these resources before calling as we need to keep our phone lines available for patients who are sick with COVID-19 or in need of immediate medical help.

Health care workers, including those at Mercy, are working long hours to care for our community through this pandemic. As always, we are praying for each of our patients and are grateful for your prayers for us, as well.

Your life is our life's work.

Lebanon R-3 Superintendent Dr. David Schmitz talks about social distancing during a PSA video.

Officials team up for COVID-19 PSA

SSMITH@LACLEDERECORD.COM

The City of Lebanon joined with other area entities to produce a video promoting rules for dealing with COVID-19.

Those in the video include Mayor Jared Carr, Lebanon R-3 School Superintendent Dr. David Schmitz, City Administrator Mike Schumacher and Laclede County Sheriff David Millsap.

The video is part of an overall education effort to keep people safe during the current emergency, according to a city statement.

"The City of Lebanon is working to encourage and educate our community on ways to keep safe during the COVID-19 Pandemic," the statement said. "The mayor and other city leaders saw an opportunity to partner with other Laclede County governmental organizations, including the Laclede County Sheriff's Office, the Laclede County Health Department and the Lebanon R-III School District, to encourage our community members to stay home as much as possible over the next 30 days. The public service announcement encourages our residents to practice social distancing and take precautions when going out for essentials.

The video shows officials giving advice on social distancing. "Social distancing guidelines suggest that we should not have groups of 10 or more gathered together. What that does not mean is that we should intentionally pull people together, but rather with social distancing we want to avoid congregating overall. So please, just stay home and take care of yourself if you have to go out for essentials such as groceries or medications, it's best if you plan on shopping alone," officials say in the video.

Kimberly Baily, RN, Laclede County Health Department, said "It's okay to bring family members if it's a necessity but alone is always best. Do your best to keep a minimum of six feet between you and other members of the public."

The city also released four public service announcements featuring Mayor Carr. In one announcement, Carr asked residents to check on their family, friends and neighbors to see how they are doing, especially if they live alone. He also asked residents to stay at home as much as possible and practice social distancing.

Stay Healthy During this Pandemic

If you are keeping your distance from others and staying home, you're doing your part to flatten the curve in this COVID-19 pandemic.

The second step is to take measures to keep yourself and your family healthy and active. Going out for a walk or bike ride can do wonders for your mind and body if it is allowed in your community. If not, try a YouTube video of an exercise class for a short workout at home.

Try starting your day with the 20, 20, 20 method. Spend the first 20 minutes doing light exercise, with the second 20 minutes working on mindfulness exercises. The last 20 minutes should be devoted to finances or business, so everything continues going as smoothly as possible.

We've included some of our favorite ideas for boosting your immune system and helping you overcome anxiety. Stay safe in both body and mind.

HANDY ADVICE

An Easy, Effective Way to Kill Germs

Each and every day you are surrounded by countless germs that could easily cause illness. But, taking 20 seconds to do this simple task throughout the day may mean the difference between falling ill or staying healthy.

Door knobs, stair rails, and various other surfaces you touch throughout the day are likely lurking with cold germs. When someone is sick, it is passed to others through respiratory droplets via coughs and sneezes. When we unknowingly touch these microscopic droplets of germs on surfaces and then touch our mouth, nose, or eyes, we leave ourselves susceptible to getting a cold. Some viruses and bacteria can live several hours on hard surfaces like cell phones, computer keyboards, and doorknobs. Preventative hand washing is an important thing that can protect your health.

Since hand washing is so critical, it's important to do it right. It's generally best to wash your hands with plain soap and warm water. When it comes to hand washing, don't cut any corners. Once soap is applied, rub hands vigorously for a minimum of 20 seconds. Scrub the entire surface of your hands, including the backs of your hands, wrists, between your fingers and under your fingernails.

Rinse your hands and then dry them with a disposable towel or let air dry. Use the towel to turn the faucet off.

Studies show that regular soap has proved very effective, and purchasing special antibacterial soaps may not be necessary. Recently an advisory panel reporting to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration concluded that plain soap and water work just as well to prevent the spread of germs as costlier antibacterial products. Whichever the case, remember to take time to lather up throughout the day to avoid spreading germs.

HEALTH TIP:

If you have a hard time getting young ones to wash their hands for more than three lighting fast seconds Make hand washing fun by having your kiddies sing their entire alphabet while thoroughly lathering their hands. If they do this, it should take the recommended 20 seconds for them to sing and soap.

IMMUNE BOOSTING JUICE RECIPE

1-cup kale
1 peeled orange
4-5 strawberries
1 chunk ginger
1 red bell pepper
1 tsp elderberry syrup
½ cup coconut water

Directions:

Add fruits and veggies to juicer.
Add syrup and coconut water directly to your glass of juice.

Elderberries BOOST YOUR IMMUNE SYSTEM

Elderberries are a prolific species of plant that can be found all across the Northern Hemisphere. Along with their broad geographical reach, they also have deep roots in European and Native American Folklore.

Today, common preparations of elderberry include an extract or syrup that can be taken by the spoonful or used in food preparation. While the sweet flavor may be enough on its own, there are other benefits that encourage elderberry intake as a daily practice.

Throughout history, elderberry has been touted as the cure-all, from skin issues to influenza (flu). Many of these claims have been verified with anecdotal evidence, some of which has been substantiated by science. The elderberry's amazing effect on the immune system is contributed to extremely high levels of vitamin C, which is 87% of the daily value.

While there will always be a need to continue research, the plants' long history of protective effects should be enough to encourage regular usage, especially during allergy, cold and flu seasons.

AROMATHERAPY for Stress Relief

Aromatherapy uses natural oils extracted from flowers and other plants to enhance wellness, ease pain, relieve stress, and increase mental awareness and cognitive function.

Stress can affect immunity and cause the digestive, excretory, and reproductive systems to stop working normally. Even worse, chronic stress puts our bodies into survival mode, causing a run-down of our overall body systems.

Demetria Clark, author of Aromatherapy and Herbal Remedies for Pregnancy, Birth, and Breastfeeding, recommends aromatherapy for stress relief. "Aromatherapy is known to encourage deep breathing and we know that deep breathing is a tool widely used to reduce stress", she explained. Because there are so many topical applications for aromatherapy, such as body sprays, compresses, creams, liniments and massage oils, it is easy to use at home and practical to use daily.

HOW DOES AROMATHERAPY WORK?

The aroma from essential oils is believed to stimulate brain function by immediately penetrating cell membranes and crossing the brain-blood barriers to reach the emotional center of the brain at a rapid speed. "Essential oils have many constituents that promote relaxation, calm and feelings of well-being," Clark said.

One of the simplest and most effective ways to benefit from essential oils is to first sample smelling them. "Just because an essential oil is listed as good for de-stressing, doesn't mean it will work for you", she said. Everyone is different so if you feel agitated or don't like a particular aroma, listen to your own instincts.

Once you find the right essential oils for you, you can use them anytime. Just put a few drops on a handkerchief so you can carry it with you. It is also important to know that not all essential oils are alike. Make sure you purchase the therapeutic grade oils as some oils may contain harmful chemicals.

feelings of well-being”

Easter AT HOME

As a city and nation, we are facing unprecedented times. To our senior citizens who must stay at home and are separated from family and friends, our city staff wants you to know you are loved, missed and appreciated. Lebanon stands strong today because you are the ones who built this city and we honor that.

Just like the days before the first Easter, things in the world were really dark but know, Sunday is coming. Our community will rise again. You will be able to go to church again, visit the library, go to a dance at the senior center and best of all, hug your grandkids. Hang in there, we are going to come out of this #LebanonStrong.

Bunny Oatmeal

Recipe courtesy of Tiffany Edwards of Creme de la Crumb on behalf of Milk Life

Servings: 1

- 1/3 cup instant oats
- 3/4 cup fat-free milk
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon brown sugar
- 2/3 small banana
- 2 fresh blueberries
- 1/2 small strawberry
- chocolate syrup (optional)
- 1 glass milk (8 ounces)

- In microwave-safe bowl, stir oats, milk, cinnamon, vanilla and brown sugar. Microwave on high 30-60 seconds and stir.
 - Cut banana in half crosswise. Cut 1 1/8-inch thick coin slice from flat ends of each banana half. Place two banana slices in upper third of oatmeal bowl, side by side, to make eyes. Top each banana slice with one blueberry.
 - Place remaining banana halves at top of bowl, hanging out, to create ears.
 - Place strawberry in middle of bowl to make nose then drizzle chocolate, if desired, to make mouth and whiskers.
 - Serve with 8-ounce glass of real milk for added nutrition.
- Nutritional information per serving: 320 calories; 2 g fat; 10 mg cholesterol; 18 g protein; 59 g carbohydrates; 5 g fiber; 190 mg sodium; 550 mg calcium. Nutrition figures based on using fat-free milk and include 8-ounce glass of milk.

Instruction is delivered via online programs and emails.

Her sixth-grader said science was the hardest subject for Mom to teach because at school there are more hands on learning opportunities.

Teaching math was the tougher chore for Lowrance.

"They try to teach me. I'm getting better. It's definitely not like it was 12 years ago," Lowrance said.

With the extension of the closures for area schools to at least April 30, Lowrance and other parents have plenty of home schooling in their future.

This gives Lowrance some concerns.

"My thing is I'm afraid they're not going to learn and grasp everything like they would at school and not be as ready for the next grade," Lowrance said.

She said this concern is a motivator for her teach her children well.

She had plans for a science lab Wednesday, an outdoor lab on a sunny day.

"They're going to try to make a volcano today," Lowrance said.

In order to keep them active and off their phones to replicate the school environment, she has them doing crafts, paintings and exercising besides the on-line work.

Lowrance said she was aware other parents had negative experiences. However, her experience has been a positive one.

"Honestly, they haven't fought me ... They're really enjoying it because they're getting to each their younger siblings, a four and one-year-old. They enjoy showing them how to do this stuff," Lowrance said.

One downside for her kids was missing their friends from school.

When her kids get restless or aggravated about something, a recess solves the problem.

"We'll take a break and then get back to it," Lowrance said.

She has picked up these time-honored teaching techniques and agreed she was on a path to teaching like a professional.

"I'm getting there, kind of. I'm trying," she said.

For Jeremy Garner, it is the technological approach to teaching that has been a speed bump to learning.

He appreciated the on-line tutorials about how to use Google Classroom. However, he noted that each teacher's page was different.

"Each teacher seems to want to use a different program, and a lot of those programs are overloaded and not working for half the students," Garner said.

Without multiple displays to keep the source material, notes and worksheets up, finding the answers was a chore.

"By the time you get back to what you just read, you don't remember what to write on your paper. There's no going back to page 32 and reading it again. You've got to toss back between three screens and find it and by then you've forgot what you're looking for," Garner said.

Makenna, 11, Kole, 4, and Natalyn Riddick, 1, monitor the progress of their backyard volcano, a science experiment for Makenna's class.

However, he lauded the teachers for their efforts.

"The teachers have been amazing as far as we can email them all day long. The kids can contact straight from their Classroom page. They've been on point, but still it's hard for them to help us remotely navigate what we're trying to find," Garner said.

He said math was the hardest subject to teach.

"The rest of the stuff you can find the answers. You can read a book. You can Google stuff to read and find the answer, but math's tough," Garner said.

He has two seniors, a seventh grader, a fifth grader and an almost kindergarten.

"I told my wife, Sabrina, that after this week, I'm just going to graduate all of them, and Monday they're going to look for jobs," Garner said.

With five kids, he experiences the same wide range of grade levels that an early 1900s, one-room school teacher experienced.

He said his students were well behaved. The challenge was in the number of kids.

"It's just overwhelming to have five in a classroom at the same time and have them all work. We've got a little workstation set up for each of them," Garner said.

He is ready to make sacrifices to end the pandemic even if it means another month of home schooling.

"I think it's important. I think we need to probably follow the recommendations and stay at home and quit going out and running around so we can get past this.

And he joked he will make a very personal sacrifice.

"My sanity has to be put on hold," Garner said.

Like Lowrance, Garner has his concerns about home schooling kids during the COVID-19 pandemic.

"I just think that there's a lot of kids that were on the line, struggling before this happened," he said.

He worries that not all parents with kids on the bubble will sit down with their kids and help them succeed.

"They just going to fail from here," Garner said.

Tanya Turner has a unique perspective since she teaches English classes at Waynesville and has a son Carson, 9, in the fourth grade at Boswell. Consequently, she uses technology to teach her students in the morning before working with Carson in the afternoon.

She has taught her Waynesville students on-line for three weeks and has learned to use a variety of online programs in her teaching.

"I think it's actually made me a better teacher. I am learning all these new technologies that I wouldn't have been pushed to use before," Turner said.

As a Lebanon mom, she gets to supervise Carson as he uses a variety of online programs. He uses i-Ready for his math and language arts lessons, Stemscopes for science, Ducksters for social studies lessons and Epic for reading.

"Carson was very familiar with all of these programs already, so it was very easy to transition," Turner said.

During her lessons, she also has her son Jackson, 4, to keep an eye on.

"I would say, teacher-mom and mom-mom, it's been interesting mostly because of Jackson being four and very needy," Turner said.

Renee Durbin works her home schooling schedule around her work schedule at Lowe's, which is made easier by her son Mason.

"I'm lucky because my kid is really responsible. For example, yesterday when I was getting ready for work, he was already up and had his Chromebook out and was logging in and checking emails from his teachers," Durbin said.

She is thankful for her son's teachers and wanted to thank them for their efforts.

"I can't speak about all the teachers at Lebanon High School, but I can tell you the ones my kid has are phenomenal. They are very good at communicating with him, and they're making it very easy," Durbin said.

Consequently, she appreciates the Zoom meetings, which are like a video conference call. She said Mason and five other students conferenced at the same time with teachers who answered their questions.

"That has made my job as a home schooler a lot easier," Durbin said.

A lot of parents are getting a taste of what teaching is like with their favorite students.

"This is new for all of us. It's a learning experience for everybody," Garner said.

QUARANTINED? BORED?

Just because we've been instructed to stay home to protect ourselves and others doesn't mean we can't have a good time. Watch for puzzles, activities, maybe even a recipe while we give you fun things to do while you're at home.

You may be stuck at home, but stick with us and we promise you won't be bored!

An Old Family Classic, Charades!

Play Charades!

This game never grows old, and is good for all ages. No charade cards. Don't worry, each family member can make up their own!

Write them down, Cut them apart, Fold and put in a bowl!

Watching your family members act out the charades while the others are guessing is guaranteed to be a memorable time full of fun and laughter.

MZ MAGNUM
RESIDENTIAL ZERO-TURN MOWER

DON'T LET THE PRICE FOOL YOU, THESE ARE BUILT-TO-LAST

Most mowers at this price are made from flimsy stamped steel and bolted together. So if you're looking for the efficiencies of a zero-turn mower at a price that does not compromise on quality construction and quality of cut - turn to the MZ Magnum. With larger and stronger frames-sporting an even stronger 7-gauge all-steel, fabricated deck - the MZ Magnum is far more substantial in build quality than other mowers in this price range. You'll immediately appreciate the rock-solid, all-steel welded construction, powerful engine and 'too much fun to call it work' ride.

Dear Abby

Dedicated Dieter Is Criticized For Refusing Offers of Food

DEAR ABBY: How would you suggest I deal with people who continually want to sabotage my diet? I worked very hard to drop more than 30 pounds. I also have diges-tive health issues that are no one's business. An example: During the coffee break at a meeting at work, some-one offered me lovely homemade baked goods. I said, "No, thank you." I then got a snide remark about being ungrateful for all the "effort that went into them" and was urged to "just try a little bit to be sociable." Another time someone plunked a huge chunk of frosting-laden some-thing in front of me. Or, a friend brings me a large quantity of candy or wine or strange "gourmet" stuff I can't eat, all of which wind up in the trash even after I have asked them to please don't. When I visit my mother, she con-tinues to pile stuff on my plate even after I repeatedly say, "No more, thank you." Then I get a lecture about wasting food. What do I need to be doing or saying differently?

SABOTAGED IN CONNECTICUT
DEAR SABOTAGED: Take your easily offended co-workers aside and tell them, individu-ally, that you cannot eat their tempting pastries because your doctor has told you you mustn't. I am sure it is the truth, and you should not feel guilty. As to your mother, who really should know better, the next time she accuses you of wasting food, I don't think you would be out of line to tell her in plain English that she, not you, is the one wasting food by piling more than you can comfortably eat on your plate.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069
